

From Todd Starnes

San Francisco Says There are 97 Genders

The following is a transcript of Todd's morning commentary. Click here to download Todd's daily podcast.

Transgender citizens of San Francisco are now eligible for $1,200 a month in taxpayer-funded cash.

All part of a program that will give 55 transgender residents a monthly stipend for up to 18 months. The only qualification is that you are confused about your preferred pronouns.

Mayor London Breed says the program will provide economically marginalized transgender people with a guaranteed income.

If you are a straight person who is down on his luck and in need of cash – tough cookies. You are not eligible.

“Our Guaranteed Income Programs allow us to help our residents when they need it most as part of our City’s economic recovery and our commitment to creating a more just city for all,” Breed said in a statement. “We know that our trans communities experience much higher rates of poverty and discrimination, so this program will target support to lift individuals in this community up. We will keep building on programs like this to provide those in the greatest need with the financial resources and services to help them thrive.”

Back when I was a kid there were just two genders. God made little girls and little boys.

What I found to be extremely interesting is that San Francisco has now identified 97 new gender options.

Among the new genders are Xenogender, Tomboy, Polygender and Graygender – I guess that’s what they’re calling the senior citizens nowadays?

Butch, Brotherboy, Demi-boy and Stud are also listed as new genders. No muffin, just stud.

I was surprised to learn that Snowflake and Pajama Boy did not make the list.

San Francisco’s latest initiative is even more perverse than the behavior of Sodom and Gomorrah. And we all know how that story turned out.